Dear Dr. Radciu:

On behalf of Mr. Dulles, I would like to acknowledge and thank you very much for your letter of 19 September. We have read your suggestions with great interest and agree with your conviction about the seriousness of the Communist threat.

I might suggest that you also discuss your ideas with the Canadian authorities who are equally concerned in the fight against Communism.

Your courtesy in writing to us about this is indeed appreciated.

Sincerely,

Signed

Assistant to the Director

Mr. Allen Dulles

Dear Sir:

The international situation is deteriorating rapidly. Communism is in full offensive and has decided to attack the Free World whenever it pleases and by all possible means. It is not necessary to recall the events of the past forty years, particularly those following the Second World War, which brought hundreds of millions of people under the communist domination and enslavement. Today more than ever the Free World is facing an unprecedented danger. Communism has expanded its influence over most of the continents and now is taking a foothold at the gates of the United States.

The so-called cold war is getting hot indeed and the co-existence between the Free World and Communism is not possible, as history of the past few decades taught us and the communist leaders have repeatedly told us. For communism, the end of the cold war should mean the world domination and the burial of the Free World. Peaceful co-existence means nothing to communists but the necessary time to build up their military and economic strength for the final showdown. The apparent dissension between the two giants of communism, China and Russia, does not influence and does not change by one inch their common goals. This is just a question of tactics.

The cold war is not advantageous to us. The events of the past fifteen years have proved it. With the rise of new nations, most of them knowing nothing of Democracy and who nourish a deeply rooted hatred for the West, Communism will find the best ground for penetration. As the recent events in Congo have shown, there is nothing to stop the communists when they see a good opportunity to sap the position of the Free World. As so often in the past, they support the United Nations only as long as this organization serves their interests. When it does not, they will attack it in the most arrogant way. When in a year or two, the Afro-Asian as well as the South American countries represented at the U.N. outnumber those of the Western World, the situation will become even worse. It is easy to see what will happen when Russians and Communist Chinese succeed in installing in these countries men like Castro and Lumumba.

As long as Communism exists, there will be no peace. The Free World is engaged in a perpetual struggle for its survival. Astronomical sums of money are spent for military defence. This money could be better used to shape up the harmony of the world, this harmony which is so urgently needed in this era of almost uncontrollable scientific progress and perpetual turmoil. Above all, we are faced with the danger of losing our liberty and even our existence. Communism is forcing us to choose between two alternatives: to surrender and thus condemn ourselves and our children to slavery, or, to fight in order to keep our liberty, our freedom and democracy, and the civilization of the whole world painfully built over thousands of years.

In order to avoid a catastrophe, active measures should be taken now before Communism drag us into an unimaginable atomic or biologic war. If an atomic war is unthinkable, the "detering war" practised since World War II has proved to be ineffective and unable to stop Communism. It gives it time to stretch out its empire and build up its military and economic structure.

The whole problem is complex and the world cannot find balance in war, be it cold or hot. Balance needs peace. But peace cannot be achieved as long as Communism laugh at moral. Communism has to go. This is imperative.

if we want to survive. The Communist World ought to be struck where it is weak. One of its weak spots is the Satellite Countries. These countries have been occupied and enslaved by the Red Army and the Secret Police. The governments of these countries do not have popular support. The people of these countries are ready to throw away the chains of slavery as shown repeatedly in Poland, Hungary, Eastern Germany and the others. It has also been shown that without outside support, any attempt to regain their liberty will end tragically as in Hungary.

Three steps should be taken to help those peoples:

1. An active diplomatic effort of the Free World to call world attention toward the aggressive activities of Communism.

2. To mobilize the world opinion toward the creation of a real international force with power to deal with any troubled area in the world, capacity to restore order and enable those involved to settle their problems by free expression of their will under international control. The events taking place now in Africa give us the best example of the need for such an international force. Such an international force could be used in the future in the countries under Soviet domination.

3. The nations under Communist domination should be helped to fight their aggressors. This, however, cannot and should not be done openly. Moreover, there should be no country, government or even a political party involved in such an action. The best way is to do it secretly, privately sponsored. There are thousands of people outside and inside the Iron Curtain ready to take such an action provided the Free World is willing to help them.

This, in my opinion, is the only way we can stop Communism, avert a disastrous atomic war and preserve our freedom. As things stand today, we have no choice but to fight Communism by all possible means and we cannot neglect the most vulnerable link in the Communist empire. A similar action in Asia would certainly enhance any chance of success.

I would like very much to discuss these ideas with you or anyone you designate.

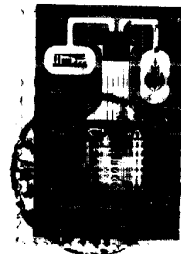

Yours respectfully,

Nicolas Radcu
